By WALTER DURANTY,

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and the North American News-paper Alliance, Inc.) RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 28.—After visiting Vienna, Budapest, Bu-charest, Berlin and Warsaw, I find several main factors which will direct the course of events in the days to say that the Munich agreement ranks as a historical landmark of first-class importance, but statesmen, businessmen and other of the depth and extent of the change which Munich has brought. The first factor is a sudden vast extension of German influence which henceforth is being, or can be, exerted in three ways. First, directly, by political - diplomatic, economic, and, if necessary, military pressure. Second, indirectly, through local Nazi parties in various countries. Thirdly, what might be called a yet more indirect or at least more peaceful manner of commercial and industrial devel-opment, along the lines laid down by geographical conditions and the natural demands of trade.

As might be expected, the increase of German prestige has ten years. No man or prison will been accompanied by a cor- hold me.' responding decrease of French and He carr ears are concentrated upon Ger- der pressure.' Economically speaking, the British at least are by no means idle and their financial and commercial operations may, in giver circumstances, play an important part in the shaping of the future.

There remains a big question mark and a possible storm-cloud on Germany's Mittleleuropan horizon. Will Franco-British, not to mention American, rearmament compel Germany to strive so hard to maintain its present relative superiority that it will be unable "turn its tanks into tractors' and to provide the machines and goods it must give in exchange for the food and raw materials of the Danube states? The storm-cloud—British economic and financial competition—which is al-ready making its appearance, contains a similar threat to Germany's future progress. If it is a threat with no promise of future co-operation and if German factories continue to produce planes, tanks and guns in ever greater volume, then Munich will only have postponed the evil day.

Of all of nature's intimate contributions to us, perhaps none so completely symbolizes clean-crisp, deep-down manhood as does fine leather.

There is something stalwart and vigorous about leather. It possesses a cultivated earthiness. It is sinewy and sumptuous at one and the same time.

At Christmas-time, therefore, gifts of leather speak a man's language. Stoutly handsome luggage and fitted toilet kits and cases that are his away-from-home

The labor body assailed Dala-dier's alleged "illegal mobilization of the workers under military requisition and accused him of attempting to create public hysteria with warnings of disorders.

"No Disorders."

"There will be no disorders on our side," the confederation promised, "and work will be resumed everywhere Thursday." Leon Jouhaux, chief of the labor confederation, summoned his executive committee into session to study the offer and an hour and a half later the trade union leaders issued a statement "reaffirming" the original strike order. "There will be no compromise with labor's just demands; the strike will occur on schedule," an official said. The war veterans supported the compromise proposal on condition that the $26,000,000 cut from their pensions would be ear-marked for national defense and that they would be given a voice in its dis-

Mayor Also Urges Generous Response to Campaign Against Tuberculosis.

Governor Rivers yesterday oined Mayor Hartsfield in urging a generous response to the Christmas seal sale being sponsored throughout Fulton and DeKalb counties by the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association in co-operation with the Georgia Tuberculosis Association, promoters of the statewide appeal to aid tuberculosis

"When you buy and use Christmas seals, you are helping in the year-round battle against tuberculosis," Governor Rivers said. These penny stamps bring health and happiness to thousands and protect all homes from the dread disease. I ask every Georgian to share in this worthwhile cause."

Mayor Hartsfield praised the work of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association in providing treatment, so far this year, for over 6,000 patients who could not afford private physicians. "In times like these when so many persons cannot afford private medical services the work of Christmas seals is doubly important in relieving distress and preventing the spread of the disease," he said. 'A staff of over 40 doctors contributes its services to the asso-ciation regularly throughout the year and it behooves every Atlantan to do his small part in this great work by buying and using as many Christmas seals as pos-

Take Calotabs to Help Nature Throw off Colds

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal rate of any virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which may be needed in the treatment of colds. ### NOT AN EASY PROBLEM

While it is becoming more evident every day that the Nazi program of persecution of the Jews is motivated more by international politics than by economic or racial reasons, the problem thus created is being recognized as of far greater difficulty of solution than is imagined by many persons.

It is easy to envision a mass migration of German Jews to some haven of refuge in the less populated portions of the earth. However, even discounting the problem of financing such a hegira, the selection of a place and the acclimitization of such a number of people, torn from the conditions of life to which they have become accustomed through generations, offers problems almost insurmountable.

Discussion of such places as Tanganyika, former German colony in Africa, if seriously considered, is almost waste of time. It would be a worse crime even than that of the Nazis, to willy-nilly dump 750,000 people (the Jewish population of Germany and Austria) utterly untrained for pioneer life, in such a place, The suffering, the privation and death which would result would be a horror not quickly expunged from the conscience of the world.

It might, of course, be possible in time to so modify conditions, in some quarters of the globe, to make a sudden addition of 750,000 population possible and desirable. But discovery of such a place is a matter of tremendous difficulty. And its preparation would take years.

Palestine, traditional homeland of the Jews, is a country of only 10,100 square miles in area, less than one-eighth the size of Georgia. It is already far more densely populated than this state, however, with latest census figures giving it 1.261,000 inhabitants. Of these, 73 per cent are listed as Moslems, 17 per cent as Jews, 8 per cents as Christians.

What is more, several governments have already gone on record as opposed to Jewish immigrants. The United States, certainly, will not modify its immigration quota restrictions. This country is more likely to reduce present quotas, than to increase them. Opposition to Jewish immigation has already been voiced by Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Mexico, Alaska, South Africa, Egypt, the Belgian Congo and several South American countries.

And, while the world struggles with this problem, Adolf Hitler and the German Nazis seek to place all the blame for Germany's anti-Semitic troubles at the door of the Western democracies. Thus, the suggestion by Prime Minister Chamberlain that Tanganyika be used as a refuge for persecuted Jews, drew forth an angry charge from the German press that Britain's real aim is not to settle the Jews, but to use them as a political weapon.

There are strong indications that Hitler's resentment at the British reaction to his own Jew-baiting policies may result in complete renunciation of all agreements made between him and Chamberlain at Munich.

Thus Germany has forced the Jews of the world into the position of political "whipping boys," a new alibi for future ruthlessness and treaty violations by the Reich.

Meanwhile, that puzzling problem remains: If the Jew can no longer live in Germany, where shall he go?

THE ECONOMIC BAROMETER RISES

Two of the most reliable indices of business and economic conditions in the United States show remarkably encouraging conditions as November draws to a close.

Automobile output, upon which so large a proportion of the workers of the nation depends, either directly in the factory assembly plants or indirectly, in the allied manufactories, is expected to exceed 300,000 units for the month. This is a jump from 90,000 in September and 215,000 in October. Executives of the industry are predicting sales of 3,500,000 automobiles during 1939, and are pushing production in order to use a large supply of sheet steel bought at low prices during the steel price war in October. This sheet steel is said to lose its workability fairly rapidly, hence the desire to turn it into the finished product as rapidly as

The second factor pointing to a rapidly advancing industrial economy, is construction. Building awards in October were 77 per cent higher than a year ago. Retail store sales for November showed considerable improvement over October, while freight carloadings continue to rise. All in all, the majority of the factors which tell the story of business conditions all over the country are today highly gratifying, giving substantial basis for high optimism for the near future.

STILL THE CROSSROADS

Atlanta came into being because this spot was the ideal location for a great system of railroad transportation for the southeast. Through the years the greatness of this city has been chiefly built upon its strategic place as a distributing center. It has always been the hub of the railroad systems for this section of the country.

When the automobile became an important transportation factor, this city again took advantage of location. Great trunk highways, bearing passenger and freight traffic upon rubber, converged upon this city. It was, again, the gateway for the traffic of a region.

Today a new form of transportation has sprung, almost overnight, into being. That is the traffic of the air. Atlanta, once more, adds new importance to her already tremendous prestige as the hub of the new argosies of the skies, which speed their way among the clouds from this city to the centers of the north, the west, the south and even unto the far countries of Latin America.

This predominant position in the maps of the airways is strikingly emphasized this week with the meeting here of the directors and financial heads of one of the great aviation companies of the nation, Eastern Air Lines. This was the logical place for the directors' meeting of that company. So, here they gathered, coming in on board the great passenger planes, the same planes that land and take-off daily from Candler Field.

Atlanta faces a future finer by far than the past. But the city must remember always that her greatness is built upon transportation. As the airways assume greater and greater importance in the life of the nation, and of the world, this city must retain her pre-eminent place, must always provide facilities for the aviation systems, at least one jump ahead of

Only by such a policy can Atlanta accept the opportunity which today knocks at her door. an opportunity to become as vital to the commerce of the skies as she has been, through all these years, to the traffic of the rails and the

NO CAUSE FOR PRIDE

With the sole exception of Japan, the proportion of fatal accidents in mining coal is greater in the United States than in any other country, according to a report by the International Labor Office at Geneva.

This country, the report reveals, achieves a higher coal output per man employed than other nations, but at the same time more men meet their deaths in coal mine accidents. The rate per 1,000 man-years of exposure to risk is, in America, 4.27, while other countries range downward to a rate of only 0.84 for Australia. Japan, the one country with a worse record than America, has a rate of 4.32. Great Britain, including the Welsh mining areas which have been the subject of so much government investigation in recent years, has a rate of only 1.34.

The report covers the period between 1927 and 1935 and is gratifying in one feature, at least. That is, all the countries surveyed showed a lowering of the fatal accident rate in coal mines, with the exception of six. The rate in the United States, for the period covered, dropped from 4.43 to 3.67.

It is possible the high accident rate in the United States is connected in some manner with the higher output per man achieved in the mines of this country. Higher output indicates a greater mechanization of labor and, where more machines are used, the risk generally increases. It can only be offset by scrupulous adoption of every possible safety device.

It would seem that safety for coal miners offers a field peculiarly sensitive to result, one that should receive the attention of properly qualified experts, interested in promotion of human safety and lessening of the loss, both economic and sentimental, always involved in death by accident.

It is the evident purpose of Hitler, at least for the immediate future, to intrench himself in the Balkan area by commercial rather than military exploitation. TO DEFINE PROBLEMS. WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 .- An important task has been assigned to Leon Henderson, Isador Lubin and Willard Thorp. The three New Deal economists are to open the hearings of the monopoly com-Thursday with a statement of the great problems which the committee will investigate.

Their testimony will have tremendous immediate interest, for its tone ought to reassure the businessmen who now fear that the monopoly inquiry will be a witch hunt. Committee members, both from congress and the executive branch, are determined that the inquiry shall be factual and calm. Their determination may be expected to be expressed by Henderson, Lubin and Thorp,

But their appearance on the stand will also have a deeper significance. If the monopoly committee is wisely managed, it will be the first effective, responsible attempt to search out the nature of the ills afflicting the modern economy. The ills are there; the unemployment figures are evdence enough of that. And it is up to Henderson, Lubin and Thorp to indicate the line the search must dstressingly pontifical. All are unorthodox, in varying degrees. Henderson, the secretary of the monopoly committee, is chunky, energetic, ebullient fellow, given to talking your head off in a firm but genial way. Swarthmore was the scene of his academic training. Through the Republican years, his career was itin-His ability to outshout Hugh Johnson, which impressed the general, finally obtained him his first New Deal job, in the NRA. He has stuck with the New Deal ever since, and, as one of the inventors of the monopoly inquiry, must now be classed among the top men in the administration.

Lubin, who is Secretary of Labor Frances Perkns' right-hand man and commissioner of labor statistics, offers a sharp contrast to his friend. Henderson. He is small, neat, cheerful, dry and precise in his speech, and more to the taste of the school men. A Brookings Institution man, he made friends with Miss Perkins when she was denouncing her predecessor, William Nuckles Doak, for the extraordinary deceptiveness of his unemployment figures. He too is now a leading New Dealer. As for Thorp, he is not a government man, being on leave from his post as economist to Dun & Bradstreet. Youngish, tall and pleasant-looking, he has gone far since he began to harvest college degrees in the early twenties. At the start of the New Deal, he held various position, such as chairman of the advisory council of the NRA, but, when the senate refused to confirm him as director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, he took his present job. It is one of the biggest economist's jobs in the business hierarchy, but Thorp is somewhat to the left of the average business economist. He has increased his reputation lately by admirable surveys of such current problems as the undistributed profits tax.

THEORY AND FACT Lubin will discuss the inadequate performance of our economy. Thorp will describe the economy's structure. And Henderson will suggest possible lines of approach to the study of the biggest economic prob-lems. Inevitably, their statements will be colored by their personal Henderson's theory has two fixed points-a healthy capitalism's need for continuous growth, which requires the government to step in wth compensatory spending when private investment ceases; and a healthy capitalism's need for flexibility, which must not be interfered with by rigid price controls and the like. Lubin is somewhat more conservative than Henderson. Thorp is somewhat more conservative than Lubin. The important thing, however, is that all three are of an inquiring turn of mind, ready to be convinced if convincing facts are adduced.

After all, the theory that "whatever is, is right" was disproved in 1930. All the obvious dislocations of the economic system add up to the conclusion that something fundamental is wrong with the system. For those who wish to see the system preserved, the first objective is to find out precisely what is wrong-which has never been done. Curing the wrong is only the second step.

New Yorkers
dispatches raised a faint, impatient yip against the homeward yearnng of many Americans who come to New York, prosper here, enjoy the life of the metropolis and raise families in New York but never permit themselves to become New Yorkers and nevertheless complain of the nonassimilation of foreigners. The chief offender was the late O. O. McIntyre with his dozens of bathrobes and his racks of expensive suits in a Park avenue apartment, who was always picking out on his typewriter the notes of "How Dear to My Heart Are the Scenes of My Childhood," but didn't go back to Gallipolis until he died and would have pined away for the sights and sounds and luxuries of New York had he ever made the break. With Mr. McIntyre, of course, it was an act. Like some of the old-time vaudeville men, he hit upon something which pleased his audeince and never saw any reason to experiment with new material. However, he spoke for thousands of others who have settled here and done much better than they would have done back home but will never tie loose from Jones' Corners or Hickory Center in the spiritual sense and speak of their old home grounds only to disparage New York Had I known that A. ### ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

WHAT SORT OF EDUCATION? There is so much talk of education that sometimes we lose sight of all its ramifications and implications. For instance, yesterday they put away, in New York, a murderer named Robert Irwin. He is crazy. In fact his attorney, using a somewhat inelegant statement, said his client was "crazy as a bedbug." This may libel the lowly bedbug, which, for all anyone knows, may be doing his duty as he sees it and following out his natural talent. Be that as it may, Robert Irwin seems to be crazy.

He killed three people in New York about a year ago, doing the job with an ice pick. This made it much neater than if he had employed a meat cleaver or a hand axe. Still, it was murder. In the middle of his trial his attorney entered a plea of guilty to second degree murder and the judge accepted it, putting Irwin away for enough years to keep him there the rest of his life.

All of which is a sort of preamble to a couple of ideas. We talk a lot about education, but it ought not to be forgotten that education doesn't necessarily mean just a classical or practical educa-There ought to be some education which will enable people to know what and what not to believe.

It seems you may get people to believe most anything. For instance, during the recent radio scare a number of people actually believed raiders from Mars were down on earth killing the army and all civilians. There was one man who swore he saw the armored car from Mars flying through the air. BACK TO MR. IRWIN But, to get back to Mr. Irwin. Yes-

Mr. Irwin, the ice-pick murderer, came into court with four attend-represent a rich man's justice. Now, the odd thing is that just as there was a man who saw the car from Mars flying through the air, so will there be people who will nod their heads in assent at Irwin's statement and agree with him. The world hasn't changed. It is possible now for a crackpot and a murderer to say something against the forces of society which have caught him and punished him, which will cause any number of people walking the streets as sane people, to agree. The fact that Irwin is "crazy as a bedbug" and is a murderer, will make no difference. There are those who will be willing to accept his statement as wisdom. There ought to be some manner in which to spread just a little casual information around so that people wouldn't acept the words of a maniac as wisdom and the script of a radio fantasy as truth.

There is another point to be made. THE GEORGIA ANGLE When Irwin was very young they discovered he was suffering from hereditary syphilis. This, of course, affected his brain.

There ought to be more education about syphilis. Maybe you are one of those who say the subject shouldn't be discussed in public. Would it interest you to know that for the month of September a mere 1,305 cases of syphilis were reported to the department of epidemiology in Georgia? And that this number of cases is about the average? And that there must be that many cases unreported? For the one month, not the year!

Maybe you'd like to see that table:

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The day before Christmas, 21 years ago, several thousand French soldiers on leave from the trenches boarded a makeshift train at a mountain station where one man's word was law.

Fate had saved them from German guns to sacrifice them to the stupidity of power. It was a long train of wooden coaches and boxcars, and the oldiers were packed like sardines in a can-glad to endure any discomfort to spend Christmas at home. The engineer was afraid. The train was too heavy for his small rattletrap locomotive. The road ahead was a steep down-grade of serpentine curves, winding through a mountain gorge with the stone wall of a cliff on one side and a swiftly-flowing river on the other. The little engine could not hold the train on that grade. The engineer reported his fears to the army officer-a general, vasn't he?-who had command. What followed has never been adequately explained.

The general thought he knew more about engines than the engineer. And it may be that the two men, as often happens, disliked one another at first sight, so the clashing of wills was inevitable. In any case, and whatever the reason, the officer refused to heed the engineer's warning. And when the engineer persisted, almost frantic in his pleading, it was like pouring oil on flame.

The general had power. He was being antagonized. And the result, as usual, was a stubborn and arrogant resolve to use his power and crush this impudent nobody who dared to oppose him. He ordered the engineer to move the train or face a court martial. On the first steep grade, the brakes failed to hold. Soon the train was running wild, gathering speed every moment. Flames leaped up from the wheels, whipped into fury by the rushing air, and the whole train was transformed into a blazing meteor. The men who did not leap to certain death were cremated before the train crashed. There must be authority to maintain order, but power is always dangerous. No matter how good and wise the man with power may be, he is still human. He will err in judgment. And when his pride is hurt or his wrath provoked, he will use his power to satisfy his

Duke Will Play Southern California in Rose Bowl on Jan. 2

It is a bit difficult to understand the inference that Pittsburgh was the first major football team played by the Duke Blue Devils on their 1938 schedule.

For instance, Georgia Tech was on the Duke schedule. The Blue Devils won by a touchdown. And I think Notre Dame will subscribe to the idea that Georgia Tech is not exactly a warm-up opponent. So will Auburn, Alabama and others.

Duke heat North Carolina by two touchdowns. North Carolina defeated N. Y. U. and tied Fordham. Maybe Colgate and Syracuse aren't major teams, but they have been called such

The inference that Duke didn't play much of a schedule in compiling one of football's finest records is somewhat mislead-And the victory over Pitt left nothing to be desired. I don't see how that any amount of written matter, most of it emanating in the east, can detract a bit from the record of what is very probably the finest football team Duke ever had and one of the best Wallace Wade ever coached. Maybe thev'll be saving now that Pittsburgh, thinking of losing Coach Jock Sutherland to a coast college and worrying about next year's play, didn't have its collective heart in the game.

The answer is that southern football is just a bit better, on ernoor the whole, than eastern or western football, and the country at large finds it difficult to take.

Alabama lost to Tennessee and was tied by Tech, but the Crimson Tide murdered Southern California.

The best angle on the south versus east question is shown tion appeared satisfactory under in Miami's treatment of Bucknell and Duquesne. The Miami the team, which enjoys little rating in the south, defeated Bucknell, 19 to 0, and Duquesne, 21 to 7. Any year the best team in the south is capable of playing respond to the operation.

the best of any other section even or better. Since 1926, southern teams have played seven times the Rose Bowl. That's rather convincing in itself. During this period, southern teams won four times, lost twice and tied once.

Wallace Wade's record with Alabama teams in Rose Bowl games is two wins and one tie. Not bad.

SO IT'S SOUTHERN CAL.

play, will represent the west coast in the Rose Bowl game on Certainly Southern Cal wanted no part of Tennessee. For Tennessee defeated Alabama almost as handily as Alabama walloped the Trojans.

And the Duke record is impressive. That unscored on part of it is particularly awe-inspiring. But Southern Cal may have figured Duke to be the lesser of such football evils as Tennessee or Texas Christian Univer-

Duke does not appear to have a high-scoring machine, while the records show both T. C. U. and Tennessee can put it on when they're in the mood.

It would hardly do for Southern Cal to go ahead and lose Coach Wallace Wade at Duke Unia third game to Notre Dame and then get clipped in the Tour- versity for the past eight years, nament of Roses, too. That would just about ruin the Rose has accepted the position of ath-

Seems bad enough, as it is, with a twice beaten team named to represent the coast. Southam Cal can change all this sentiment by beating unbeaten Notre Dame on Saturday.

But if Notre Dame should win going away, which is highly possible, the Rose Bowl game on the day after New Year's will smell much less of roses than something else.

SUGAR BOWL'S BIG CHANCE.

Here is a chance for the Sugar Bowl people to step in and new duties at the first of the year. take over the spotlight. In fact, the Orange Bowl at Miami He will name his two assistants. might be able to arrange a much better attraction, not to mention the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

At any rate, there will be, for the second straight year, a southern team in every bowl. Duke got the Rose Bowl bid, as was to be expected

That leaves Tennessee against some formidable eastern foe like Carnegie Tech for the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans and possibly Ole Miss against a strong eastern opponent at Miami.

The hope is that T. C. U. will play in the Cotton Bowl only, in the absence of a Rose Bowl bid.

As pointed out from time to time in this corner, the sad part of it all is that Tennessee, provided it beats Ole Miss, will have compiled its greatest record and yet missed out on the Rose Bowl invitation.

That's irony. Major Bob Neyland has been working toward such a goal ever since he has been coach at Tennessee. And the one year the record may justify it, Duke comes up with a remarkable record. And it is no secret, of course, that Wallace remarkable record. And it is no secret, of course, that Wallace of the association last January Wade also has been working toward just such a goal ever since after the latter had served the he has been at Duke. He missed out once before when Tech beat the hitherto unbeaten Dukes, 6 to 0, in the 10th game of their season. They virtually had their bags packed for the post seems assured.

GOOD BREAK FOR TECH.

There were some rather happy voices on the other end of the office telephones vesterday. And I rather suspect they were the voices of Georgia Tech players.

The trip to Barkeley to play California's Golden Bears was assured with the naming of Southern California as the Rose Bowl team.

The Jackets missed out on their trip last year. The seniors were given a trip to New Orleans for the Sugar Bowl game

I'll never forget Possum McLain, a senior manager. Possum was hopeful to the bitter end that something would happen so that California would not get the bowl bid. He misses the trip by one year.

Tech has done rather well in competition with California, winning the Rose Bowl game of January 1, 1929, and two years ago beating the Golden Bears on Grant Field. In between they lost games at Berkeley and Grant Field. The series is all square, with the fifth game coming up.

The Tech boys will enjoy the trip, once they get out of the desert in Texas. At the end of the third day they'll understand what that fellow meant when he wrote the poem "Trees." There will be no chance for the boys to stay over and see the Rose Bowl game, because they have to be back for the opening of school on January 3.

The California-Tech game will be played the day after Christmas. Meanwhile, the players have a week off in which to think about the delightful prospect of making the long jaunt to the golden west. They'll get to see San Francisco and the Golden Gate. But, mainly, they will keep their mind on seeing the Golden Bears.

2 Bulldogs To Play VOLS ARE ABOVE Before 'Home Folks'

T.C.U. AND DUKE Knox Eldredge and Earl Hise Prepped at Miami Schools; Athenian With Hurricane.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Two Georgia players will be playing before "home folk" when the Bulldogs close their season with the Purple Hurricane of Miami University Friday night in Orange Bowl stadium.

Tailback Earl Hise and End Knox Eldredge are well-known to Miami grid fans as enemies but Friday they will be playing on the same team.

Hise, who hails from Chickamauga, Ga., prepped at Edison
High in Miami and won for himself a position of the all-stateteam.

Serimmages are on schedule for Eldredge's home is in the "playground of America," but he did his high school studying at Miami High, bitter rival of Edison.

But in '35, Hise grabbed plenty of glory as he almost single-handedly won the game for Edison. The score was 6 to 0 but the job of

And so, both boys will be play-ing their hearts out before "home folk" but they will be fighting for the same cause.

Hise is first-string tailback and the Bulldogs' most consistent Gilespie like he owned it.

Incidentally, while boys will be playing before home people, an Athens boy will be fighting on the other side. George Tackle Stan Raski, nursing minor there at end for the Hurricane.

Scrimmages are on schedule for today and Wednesday with the team leaving for Miami that night. Only Clayton Wilhite, tackle, was hurt in the Tech game and may not see action against the Hurri-cane. Marvin Gilespie and Dooley Mathews are cripples for the game but the remainder of the Bulldogs

Silver Wedding Anniversary Will Be Marked By Eggnog Party

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Yancey Plan To Keep Open House Next Sunday

By Sally Forth.

WHEN Mr. and Mrs. Earle Yancey give their annual Christmas eggnog party next Sunday, the occasion will bear added significance, for it will celebrate their silver wedding anniversary. On that date 25 years ago the former Lula Jack Harris, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lucius J. Harris, became the bride of Earle Yancey in the study of the Second Baptist church, with the late Dr. John White

The wedding was a surprise to their friends and families, for no one knew of their engagement, their plans for a wedding having been canceled because of a bereavement in the bride's family. Accompanying the couple on the romantic venture were their close friends, Fannie Mason and Dowse Donaldson, who a year later became Mr. and Mrs.

Donaldson, and who will assist the hosts in entertaining at their anniversary party.

The affair will be in the nature of an open house at the beautiful Yancey home in Druid Hills and will assemble several hundred friends of the popular couple be-tween the hours of 5 and 8 o'clock. Mrs. Fleming Settle and Mrs. Sam Henry will serve the delicious eggnog for which the Yancey parties are famous, and Mrs. Dowse Donaldson and Mrs. William King will preside at the coffee table.

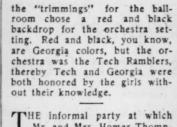

Assisting in entertaining will be a trio of sisters of the hosts including Miss Marie Harris, Miss Mary Ella Yancey, and Mrs. Howell Erwin, of Athens. Others assisting will be Mesdames Lowndes Yancey, Enos Hartman, Grady Estes, Lucius Harris Sr.,

THE informal party at which Mr. and Mrs. Homer Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thompson will entertain this afternoon at the home of the latter will be marked by double significance. Not only will the occasion honor the hosts' brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thompson, of Los Angeles, Cal., but will also celebrate the birthday of the hosts' and honor guests' mother, Mrs. Metta Thompson, whose 78th birthday

The Carl Thompsons arrived a few days ago from the west coast for a brief visit here and guests at this afternoon's affair will be limited to friends of the honor guests.

A huge birthday cake bearing 78 gleaming candles will center the dining room table around which will be grouped the five grandchildren of the family's eldest member. The youngsters will be accorded the honor of cutting their grandmother's cake and serving the slices to friends gathered for the auspicious occasion. They include Carl Thompson Jr., Alfred Thompson Jr., Tommie, Mattalen and Suzanne Thompso

Lois Thompson, only daughter of the honor guest, will assist her brothers and sisters-in-law in entertaining.

The faculty will entertain the student body of the Atlanta Jun-ior College with a jamboree today at Lakemoore, the country home of Wiley L. Moore. The jamboree Mr., Mrs. McCarley will begin at 11 o'clock and last through the afternoon. A barbeque Give Family Party.

Of Nagging Wife

By Caroline Chatfield

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: May a mere man come to you for advice? My wife is a very suspicious-minded woman and for years has accused me of associating with other women, which is ridiculous, as I have always been true and faithful to her. My position as a physician brings me in contact with many women, who are patients, but my interest in them is only a professional one. I have to be courteous in my business, but have no personal interest in them otherwise. My wife distrusts me and is constantly nagging at me, and accusing me of being interested in first one woman and then another. Sometimes I think she is mentally ill, as this obsession is so strong with her. and is growing as the years pass. I get very tired of being falsely accused when there is nothing to it. I have tried to reason with her but to no purpose. It is becoming a bone of contention between us, as

My Day: First Family Has Guests At Little White House

WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—You couldn't ask for bluer skies nor brighter sunlight than we are enjoying today, but the temperature is very low for this part of the world. Those who are occupying houses with open fireplaces as the only heat, find rising in the morning and lighting the fire takes a great deal of character. Our guest cottage depends entirely on open fires for heat, and I was amused when someone was discussing the housing for two guests who are arriving today, to have them say: "Well, the two people you have in your guest cottage now are hardy navy men trained to accept whatever discomforts come their way, but I think these visitors would find it difficult to accommodate themselves to such circumstances." So a kind gentleman with a very comfortable house is going to take our two new visitors in.

am rather sorry that I cannot be in New York city tomorrow, for the Public Education Association is having a dinner meeting and the topic for discussion will be "Education for American Life." They are considering the "recommendations of the regents' inquiry into the character and cost of public education in the state of New York." The Public Education Association has done much in my state to interest to do progressive work, and every type of problem can be studied Mr. Owen D. You may have thought that the difficulties on this project in New York have been so little that little could be accomplished. If so, it will interest you, as it did me, to find that in New York city, 4,202 people are employed by the Federal theater and, since this project first took form, 12,593,872 people have seen Federal theater performances. That is quite a record and I congratulate the personnel and the supervisory staff.

The capillary area between the smallest arteries, the arterioles, on the one side and the smallest veins, the venules, on the other, may be recorded as a lake with 600 to 800 times greater cross section area than the stream itself (arterioles or venues), so the velocity of movement or flow is naturally slower through the lake. The reduced velocity has advantages, for it is here that the interchange of gases (oxygen and carbon dioxide), nutritive materials and waste products takes place between blood and tissues.

MOON ON THE WATER

Gavin, Finding Jane With Stalled Car, Walks With Her to Garage for Gas

BY RUBY M. AYRES.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.
When Jane, youngest of the Brookes' three daughters, is 16, the family can scarcely believe the good news that her godmother, of whom they have seen little in years, has bequeathed her 3,000 pounds to be held in trust until she is 21. Jane, who bothers little with her unruly hair, is an edd mixture of dreaminess and philosophy and her mother has long given up hope of "managing" her. Pamela, a year older, is saving and careful. Dulcie, the eldest and the beauty of the family, would spend the money lavishly. But that would be expected of her. When Mrs. Brookes dies suddenly Dulcie and Jane find their world upstile down, but Famela just naturally takes her mother's place. Shortly before Jane is to get her legacy. Gavin Montford, who has been in the Canadiam wilds, returns to England and is visiting his uncle. Dr. Bingham, the Brookes' neighbor and family physician. The Brookes old second-hand car stops suddenly when Jane is driving alone. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT II.

Either Pamels or Dulcie might have felt slightly dubious when he stopped to ask if he could render assistance, but Jane accepted unhesitantingly.

"I'll have a look," he said.
"I've got a torch," Jane informed him and produced one from her coat pocket. The man flashed a little light here and there, and presently he laughed.

"You've run out of gas," he said. "Oh, is that all!" Jane was in-finitely relieved. "It's such a very old bus that I was afraid it had given up the ghost once and for-ever, and we shall never get another—at least, not until—" She stopped, realizing that one does She not take complete strangers into one's confidence. But it was surprising how often of late the thought of her legacy came into her mind, and how much she had started to build upon it. She gave a little start when the

"Is it? I don't know this part of the country at all."

"I know the short cuts." Jane said. "Through the woods and over the stream." She glanced up at him interestedly, realizing that he was several inches taller than she was, and that he walked with an easy, swinging stride, and carried his hat in his hand. "This

CHICAGO.

Nov. 28.—Although approximately 9,000 head of livestock came into the Union Stock Yards today trading receipts were billed direct to packers which were bottled up by the week-old strike of CIO handlers.

The run included 5,000 hogs, of which 3,000 went direct, 2,000 cattle, 200 calves and 2,000 sheep. About 500 hogs were left over from Saturday.

Indications that some livestock marketings are being diverted to other processing centers pending settlement of the strike here appeared in receipts at outside markets. Total hog receipts in western markets were about 28 per cent larger than a week ago and 100 per cent larger than a week ago and 100 per cent larger than a week ago of those that came in were billed direct or those that came in were billed direct or were show animals. At seven principal corn belt markets, including Chicago, the run totaled 471,000 head compared with 657,000 the previous week.

Hog prices at principal outside markets in the midwest today were lower, with early losses ranging from 15 to 25 cents. Wholesale meat quotalons here were slightly higher reflecting, according to livestock men, cold weather and close of the Thanksgiving week end during which apparently had little effect on local meat prices although wholesale pork loins were 15 cent a pound higher than Saturday which at 17½ compared with 184 week ago, and beef carcases were up ½ to 1 cent compared with last Monday.

Rails and Industrials Experience Difficulty in Absorbing Selling.

Daily Bond Averages. NEW YORK, Nov. 28.-(A)-

Bonds slid down hill today in a session of moderate activity. Rails experienced a bit more difficulty in absorbing selling than Sales (In the general run of corporate issues and at the finish many of the carriers were off 1 to more than 3 points. Equally sharp declines were recorded by some of the more volatile industrial loans, buy low yield corporate bonds were steady. Most U. S. governments were inclined to heaviness on a small turnover, although a few treasuries finished a shade higher. Restraint shown by buyers was attributed in part to a further slide in the sock market, and this in turn was associated with European unsettlement, particularly in France. Foreign dollar loans were mixed, with the widest movements on the down side. Off a point or more were Austria 7s of '57, Orient Development 6s, and Rhine West-phalia 6s of '55. Panama 5s of '63 dropped 5 on small offerings. Frationally higher were several loans of South American nations. Transactions totaled $6,036,000

CHICAGO, Nov. 28. Wheat moved upward 5-8 a cent a bushel in Chicago today, and then met with profit-taking sales that wiped out part of the gain. Helping the market to mount were estimates that export takings from Canada totaled more than 500,000 bushels. It was asserted, too, that the end was in sight for cheap wheat afloat unsold, and that three cargoes of United States hard winter wheat had been bought for shipment to the Far East. Argentine reports of unfavor-able harvest conditions in Argentina and of delays to the crop movement there tended also to lift values. Besides, indications were adverse for the new domestic crop in large areas southwest because of dry weather and frozen

During most of the day, Chicago December contracts displayed more power to climb than was the case with later deliveries. This was associated with prospects that was associated with prospects that coming tenders in December settlements would be smaller than recently looked for. Furthermore, the fact was emphasized that the December future last week had reached a new bottom price record for the season, and beginning the season that the season the season and beginning the season that the season the season and beginning the season that the season the season the fact was emphasized that the December future last week had reached a new bottom price record for the season, and had outdistanced the later months.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 28 .-(P)-The average price of middling cotton at 10 southern spot markets today was 5 points lower at 8.59 cents a pound. The average price for the past 30 market days was 8.64 cents.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 .- (A)-Cotton declined under increased December liquidation today. March sold off from $8.43 to $8.38 and closed at $8.41. Final prices were 4 to 6 points net lower.

The market opened 1 to 3 points lower under pressure in the near trade demand. Southern hedge selling encountered smaller foreign buying in the distant positions Offerings in December continued from Bombay and New Orleans sources, while scattered commission house liquidation was credited to the action of other markets. Slight partial rallies occurred toward the close. Spot cotton and

TARZAN AND THE ELEPHANT MEN No. 38

Stanley Wood gazed with wondering eyes upon the strange city ahead, a city that seemed to be built of gleaming ivory. "What city is it?" he asked. Waranji, leader of the Waziri, shook his head. "I do not know, Bwana. I have

"Perhaps the Memsahib is there," suggested a warrior. "Perhaps," Wood agreed, "but if the people there are unfriendly, they will kill us or take us prisoner. In either case we could do Gonfala no good." "We are Tarzan's Waziri. We fight," Waranji answered.

Wood laid a hand on the ebony shoulder. "You are great fighters, and I know you'd do anything for a friend of Tarzan, but I don't in-tend to sacrifice you. "If the people there are friendly, one man will be as safe as seven. If they're hostile, we'd all die."

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Despite their protests, Stanley Wood ordered the Waziri to return home and report to Muviro, their chief. "If you meet Tarzan," he said, "he'll know what to do." Reluctantly the stalwart warriors obeyed, and Wood turned to face

WHO GOT THE $12,000,000?

• Last year several hundred different kinds of manufacturers, from toymakers to train builders, made articles of aluminum.

They bought more than half the metal they needed from concerns which make a business of reclaiming and selling "used" aluminum, and from other suppliers.

The aluminum and its alloys which we supplied in many convenient forms cost them $12,000,000 less than the same amount of metal would have cost them in 1929, and $21,000,000 less than in 1926.

How were these large savings accomplished?

The aluminum was extracted from the same kind of ore as in 1929 and in 1926.

The same basic processes were employed.

On an average, the workers in our plants received about 30% more for making a pound of aluminum in 1937 than they did in 1929.

The clear saving of many millions of dollars was the direct result of scientific research, organized to seek every possible efficiency and economy in production. Much money was spent in improving plants and equipment so that every pound of aluminum could benefit by these discoveries.

The hope of selling more aluminum was a guiding motive for all this effort and investment.

But who got the $12,000,000 of savings? It went to the users of aluminum - to the manufacturers who make things and to you who buy them.
